This session is an opportunity to engage in critical dialog with four firms that partner with universities and colleges to boost online enrollment and capabilities. Schools newer to online, and those wishing to enhance growth at a program or unit level, often find these firms most attractive. This is a rare opportunity to compare firms, and consider questions of fit and ROI. Firms present will include Deltak, Educators Serving Educators, Pearson and Learning House.
- Option 2: Emerging Platforms & Models. This session features three firms championing either next generation learning analytics (Knewton) or offering an enterprise-wide vision of online programming and support (Everspring, Pearson). This is an opportunity, which may most appeal to schools with significant experience online, to consider these early-stage initiatives designed to take online higher education to another level of scale and sophistication.
